PREFACE.

WILLIAM ELFORD LEACH, the author of this Pamphlet, wrote it when he occupied the position of Keeper of the Zoological Department of the British Museum. Though not positively stated to be the case, it seems evident, from the manner in which the names of the several specimens are arranged in this Catalogue, that it was intended to be cut up and used to label the collection of Mammals and Birds then in the British Museum. This would account in some measure for the rarity of the tract, comparatively few copies probably having been printed, and of these a number destroyed. It is also a question if it was ever actually published in the ordinary sense, for though the printer's name is given at the foot of the title page, no Publisher's is mentioned. Regarding the many new specific names proposed by Leach in this Catalogue, I believe that hardly any are now in use, older ones having, in most cases, been found for the mammals and birds to which they were applied.

Fifteen new generic names were proposed for Birds, as follows :

Ierax = Accipiter, Brisson (1760).
Triorches = Pandion, Savigny (1801).
Mecistura.
Calamophilus = Panurus, Koch (1816).
Vitiflora = Saxicola, Bechstein (1802).
Spipola = Anthus, Bechstein (1805).
Melizophilus.
Fedoa = Ædicnemus, Temminck (1815).
Squatarola.
Pavoncella.
Macrorhamphus.
Gallinago.
Zapornia = Porzana, Vieillot (1816).
Moris = Sula.
Utamania = Alca, Linnæus (1766).

Of these Mecistura has been used by many writers for Parus caudatus, so also has Melizophilus for Sylvia undata, Squatarola for Charadrius helveticus, Macrorhamphus for Scolopax griseus, and Gallinago for Scolopax gallinago, &c. Pavoncella is equivalent to Machetes, Cuv. and antedates it by one year, but the former name has hardly ever been used, whereas the latter has been generally adopted.

As will be seen by reference to the text, none of these names were introduced with any description whatever, and for this reason, if for no other, they fail to meet the requirements of the British Association Rules, which demand that a generic name to pass current should be accompanied by a clear exposition of the essential characters of the genus. This disposes of Pavoncella, but Mecistura, Melizophilus, Squatarola, Macrorhamphus, and Gallinago may be employed in virtue of their subsequent adoption by later writers.

The only copy of this Catalogue that I have seen is in a volume of Pamphlets in the Zoological Department of the British Museum, and from it this reprint has been taken. The chief value of the latter is rather of a negative character, as shewing the worthlessness of the Tract, and that far higher consideration has been set upon it by writers on European birds than it at all merits.

OSBERT SALVIN.

SYSTEMATIC CATALOGUE OF THE SPECIMENS OF
THE INDIGENOUS MAMMALIA AND BIRDS

THAT ARE PRESERVED IN

The British Museum:
WITH THEIR LOCALITIES AND AUTHORITIES.

TO WHICH IS ADDED

THE DESCRIBED SPECIES THAT ARE WANTING
TO COMPLETE THE COLLECTION OF
BRITISH MAMMALIA AND BIRDS

London :
PRINTED BY RICHARD AND ARTHUR TAYLOR, SHOE-LANE.

1816.

In the following List each specimen is marked with the name of the person from whom it was either received or purchased, and of the place where it was taken. In the MS. catalogue attached to the collection of British Zoology, the donor's name is recorded, and the localities are more particularly mentioned.

Any species, sex, or accidental variety that is not enumerated in this Catalogue will be an acquisition to the collection, and the name of the donor will be constantly registered.

W. E. LEACH.

British Museum,
August 30, 1816.

ERRATA.

Since the List was printed off it has been discovered that the Solitary Stare (page 18, the Solitary Thrush of Montagu) is merely the young of the Common Stare.
